MYANMAR BOUTIK - Social Business in Bagan Myanmar

Many women living in rural Myanmar do not have access to income or decent job. When women are head of the family and lack assets, skill and capital, they face great difficulties to earn sufficient income for their family. This can result in migration which can be risky and increase the vulnerability of women and their children. By providing vocational training and facilitating the creation of women producer support groups, we actively work to enable women to earn a reliable income in their villages.

- These products are created by many groups of women producers located in villages in Myanmar!

- They use resources available around the villages and made the products by hand

- By being customer, you are supporting women’s income and directly contribute to improving their quality of life and that of their families
